Chief Executive Officer

Kim Leadbeater's assisted suicide bill was published less than three weeks before a crucial debate and vote on Friday 29 November. This time frame fails to provide MPs sufficient opportunity to scrutinise such complex legislation. CARE has joined others in voicing concern about this.

We know that many of you have written to your MP to ask them to vote against the Bill. Some of you have even gone to meet your MP in person. Thank you so much for taking a stand. It really does make a difference, and we know that MP's minds are being changed on this issue.

Please consider writing to your MP again to express concern at the very rushed time frame before this month's vote. We've produced an updated template email to help you do this, available at the link below.

Writing to an MP again can make an impact. And remember: our opponents aren't letting up in their campaign. You may also want to note some more detailed concerns about the Bill, set out in this helpful article.

As ever, we'd encourage you to use your own words and present arguments with gentleness. And we'd underline the effectiveness of sharing your own personal experiences if you feel able to: perhaps of caring for a loved one at the end, or worrying about vulnerable family members.
